BULLETIN.

Late this afternoon the first notifications to draft eligibles to appear for examination before the local exemption board were prepared by the board at its Sixth street office.

The list arrived from Washington yesterday. The Record-Herald has eliminated all numbers over 2803, the highest registered number for this district. Read the numbers across the column.

RUSSIA'S SERIOUS FLIGHT.

Never in all the history of Russia as a nation have her soldiers under arms behaved so disgracefully as they are doing at this time. Never a brilliant or a daring soldier, the Russian has always been a brave one in his dogged and plodding way. Back in the days of Peter the Great when Sweden was a world power under George XII, a military genius of the first order, the Russians were defeated time and again and driven back with great slaughter. The very existence of Russia was threatened by the victorious Charles. But in the end the Russian fortitude and staying powers prevailed and Sweden was crushed forever at Pultowa.

All through the centuries of her existence Russia has been at war. She has never won a spectacular victory or triumphed in a daring campaign. Ability to stand punishment and come back for more has been her main asset in war. Her place as one of the world's greatest powers was built upon this foundation alone. Her soldiers have always been steady and stubborn and stupid. Always they have reached the empire's goal through defeat. They have worn their enemies out and then had enough left to deliver the final blow.

Most notable of all these cases was that of the wars with Napoleon. The great French emperor destroyed the Russian army at Austerlitz. Later he hammered the remnants of this army and a fresh one to pieces in several smaller battles. The Russian soldier fought bravely in every encounter but always with misfortune. When Napoleon led his invincible armies in to Russia he was opposed at Borodino in one of the most stubborn battles of that century. The Russians fought here with the courage of despair. Their infantry regiments simply refused to yield. Napoleon himself grew sick of the slaughter and ordered a bayonet charge to disperse these determined grenadiers. Suffering a loss of fifty per cent of their forces, the Russians fought on while in retreat. Later in the Russo-Japanese war, although beaten the Russians were not disgraced. At Port Arthur, Mukden and on the Yalu they fought like brave men long and well.

During the first two years of this war the soldiers of the czar, poorly equipped and outclassed in artillery and reserves of ammunition, fought with stubborn courage. They won great victories over the Austrians and, although beaten always by the Germans, they offered determined resistance in retreat.

Then came the revolution. Liberty, the cherished and priceless heritage of every free man and the beautiful dream of every slave, came at last to the poor Russian. And while the democracy of the world rejoiced at this miracle, this benefaction, the Russian himself became drunken and debauched from the intoxicating draught. He was no more fit for it than a child, an animal, an unreasoning being. He listened to the wild raving of every agitator, anarchist and outcast that stood on a street corner and proceeded to overthrow authority and defy discipline and cast organization to the winds.

Germany flooded the distraught country with spies and agents. Riot, rebellion and rapine held sway. Then the big men of the country began to come to the front and, struggling on the brink, Russia was just beginning to find herself when the army cracked like a rotten stick.

In the light of every reason, argument, theory and condition, this sudden weakness and cowardice of soldiers who have four centuries of stubborn, unyielding bravery behind them, is inexplicable. The Russian bear that walks like a man, who can fathom him? Who can understand him? Having his habitation on the borderline between occident and the orient he displays the characteristics of both Shem and Japhet, and yet he is the mystery of the ages. He is the uncertain quantity of the great war. If he will do his part the Prussian will be crushed within a year. If he does not, it will require two years at least.

But the present cowardice and utter panic of the Russian armies upsets all calculations and conjectures. All precedents of this strange in and out nation have been shattered. Never in the worst period of her servitude was Russia in such a plight as today. While there is courage there is always hope, but when courage is gone either there must be a miracle or dark plumes and the crash of gravel upon the coffin of the dead.

But it is claimed that Russia may be able to yet come back that her routed and disorganized armies may yet be reorganized and under proper leadership win back what has been lost to the central powers. If this cannot be accomplished by her able leaders, as a last resort the Japanese may be called upon by the allies to throw a horde of soldiers along this front to whip the Germans and Austrians. There is no discounting the valor of the Japanese and when they get into action there will be another story to tell.

NO MORE FREE LAND.

Gladstone was of the opinion that as long as there remained in the United States land open to the settler, the test of our institutions would be delayed. The day when there will be no more free land is in sight. The remaining free land, upon which a settler can make a living, is being rapidly taken up. The government, by irrigation, may reclaim limited areas, but such scraps must be meager and the price to the settler high.

The young man can still come west, but if he wants a farm he must be prepared to pay for it, or work upon it in the hope of some day paying for it. Coming west is increasingly an investment proposition, however small the investment may be. There are still homesteads to be had in Arizona and many of the other western states, and there are states lands for sale, but within a few years these will be relegated to tradition.

Undoubtedly the cessation of settlement opportunity will produce consequences for our people, socially and politically; but they will not be as profound as an observer of Gladstone's time would have been justified in predicting. For the industrial demands of this century have surpassed any nineteenth century expectation, and the great west will furnish opportunities for a long time to come apart from agriculture, while agriculture itself will be intensified beyond computation of any former generation.

What were purely mining states are destined to vast agricultural development, and what seemed states committed to agriculture exclusively, are witnessing surprising industrial differentiations.

Notwithstanding these mitigations, it is true that there does impend an economic change in opportunity rather than cessation of opportunity, which must make itself radically felt. Statesmanship should forecast the coming event and prepare in a measure against it.

If our young men are no longer to find free lands at their disposal, the other openings should be more carefully conserved for them, rather than be offered to those who will come from Europe in response to the invitation. Whether a vast movement to our shore will follow the end of the war or not, is a perplexing question, perhaps not to be answered except by the event.

But the first duty of our government is to its own sons and daughters, and that duty coincides with a rational national policy. We have built up a vast economic organization under the security of a powerful nationalism, and that nationalism, to be conserved against all enemies, must be guarded by a contented people. Only those can be happy who have opportunity to earn a living and some more

The Automatic Gas Water Heater Makes Happy Wash Days

Every housekeeper appreciates its value. She knows there will be no fires to light—no boilers to heat—no hot water to dip from tub to tub—no waiting!

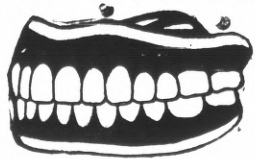

The Heater makes hot water as dependable and as certain as your light—at abundant as your cold water supply. Simply turn the faucet! Fresh water is automatically heated—instantly—while it flows. When you turn off the faucet you stop all expense. You pay only for the amount you use at the amazingly low rate of one tenth of one cent a gallon.

DIZZINESS IS ANNOYING
As Many Richmond People Know Too Well.

When the kidneys are weak or disordering, they fall behind in filtering the blood of poisons. As these poisons attack the nerves, the result is felt in spells of vertigo, just as drunkenness will make a man dizzy from the poisoning of alcohol. Dizziness, headache, backache and irregularity of the kidney secretions are all signs of weak or disordered kidneys and should not be neglected. Use Doan's Kidney Pills, the home-endorsed kidney remedy. Read this Richmond resident's statement:

Mrs. L. E. Clark, 148 Thirteenth St., says: "An attack of the grip left my kidneys in bad condition and I suffered untold agony from lame back. I had severe pains across my kidneys. I felt nervous and never seemed to get thoroughly rested up. I was troubled by shortness of breath and had headaches, and dizzy spells, too. I got three boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills at Niedecker's Drug store and they cured me, making me feel like a different woman." Price 50c, at all dealers. Simply ask for a kidney remedy. Get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Clark had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfgs., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advt.

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN, "THE GREAT SECRET"

SESSUE HAYAKAWA REV. F. LINDER TO COMES TO T. & D. SPEAK ON WAR THIS EVE THEME

"I have got them stumped on two lines of parts I can not play," smiled Sessue Hayakawa, the Japanese star who will be seen at the Richmond theater today and tomorrow in the Lasky-Paramount production, "Jaguar's Claws," and those of an Irish policeman and Swedish characters. I believe I have played every other nationality on the map; I have been Japanese, Chinese, East Indian, West Indian, Hawaiian and now in "Jaguar's Claws" I am playing a Mexican—not a nice Mexican either. It is a Mexican of the Villa type, and I am very cruel and bloodthirsty.
